1. PARTY AFFILIATION & STUDENT LEADERSHIP

Abu Md. Moniruzjaman has been a committed supporter of the democratic ideals and nationalist vision of the Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) since his student years. His political formation was shaped by the party's foundational principles of sovereignty, democratic governance, and the welfare of the common people — values that have since informed every dimension of his professional and public service career.

Student Political Leadership — HSTU (2006–2011)- General Secretary (HSTU)

From 2006 to 2011, he served as General Secretary of the student governance body at Hajee Mohammad Danesh Science and Technology University (HSTU), Dinajpur — a position attained through democratic mandate reflecting the trust of his fellow students. This five-year tenure, aligned with the BNP-affiliated student movement, provided him with intensive, hands-on training in:

- Organisational Leadership: Managing a large, politically active student body across multiple departments and academic years under challenging circumstances.
- Stakeholder Negotiation: Mediating competing institutional interests, negotiating with university administration, and representing student grievances through formal channels.
- Crisis Management: Maintaining institutional stability and protecting student welfare during periods of political volatility on campus.

- Democratic Mandate: Earning and sustaining peer trust through transparent, accountable student representation — the earliest exercise of the democratic values he continues to uphold.

This formative experience established his capacity for executive decision-making under pressure and his conviction that democratic participation is the bedrock of just governance — a conviction that has only been deepened by the systemic injustices he subsequently endured in his professional career.

2. PROFESSIONAL BIOGRAPHY

Abu Md. Moniruzjaman is a serving officer of the Department of Agricultural Extension (DAE), Government of Bangladesh, currently posted as Additional Deputy Director (Horticulture) in Kurigram. A member of the 31st BCS (Agriculture) Cadre, he combines rare qualities: the operational rigour of a field-tested civil servant, the analytical depth of an MBA-trained manager, and the technical fluency of a self-directed digital innovator.

Academic Foundation

He holds an MBA in Marketing from North South University (2011, CGPA 3.13) and a B.Sc. Ag. (Hons.) from HSTU (2008, CGPA 2.91), combining agricultural science with business strategy — an unusual pairing that underpins his capacity to bridge field-level extension work with institutional systems thinking. He completed his HSC from Rangpur Cantonment Public School (2002) and SSC from Dinajpur Zilla School (2000), both in First Division.

Corporate & Entrepreneurial Career (2008–2016)

Before entering the civil service, he demonstrated entrepreneurial leadership by founding 'Nagor Krishak Limited' (নগর কৃষক লিমিটেড) as its Chief Executive Officer — a pioneering urban rooftop farming enterprise in Dhaka that gained wide recognition following a successful pilot at Mirpur-Gabtolli. He also held senior corporate roles as Area Sales Manager at Samsung (Transcom Mobile Ltd.) and Assistant Regional Sales Manager at Symphony (SB Tel Ltd.), managing large sales forces and strategic market expansion across multiple regions.

Civil Service Career (2017–Present)

He commenced government service as Agriculture Extension Officer at Natore Sadar in January 2017. His subsequent postings span Bangladesh's most geographically demanding environments — the haor wetlands of Dirai and Shalla (Sunamganj), the hill tracts of Rangamati Sadar and Naniarchar, and the plains of Rangpur's Kaunia and Sadar upazilas. At each posting he established functional, technology-assisted extension systems in conditions where traditional infrastructure support was unavailable.

Digital Innovation in Agriculture

Alongside administrative duties, he has emerged as one of DAE's foremost digital practitioners: developing the উদ্ভিদ গোয়েন্দা (Plant Detective) AI-powered crop disease diagnosis platform; building the Krishak Card prototype (<https://krishak-card.vercel.app/>); leading GreenLoop 3.0 precision AgriTech trials; producing agricultural extension content through the AgriWisdom Bengali YouTube channel; and in 2021, constructing a field-level NID-linked farmer registry covering 51,990 farmers across 10 unions in Dirai Upazila — four years before the national AgriStack framework was formally proposed.

3. ADVERSITY, SYSTEMIC INJUSTICE & PROFESSIONAL RESILIENCE

The professional journey of Abu Md. Moniruzjaman has been marked not only by achievement, but by sustained adversity — some of it arising from the political realities of Bangladesh's governance landscape. The following account is presented honestly and without embellishment, as a record of institutional obstacles navigated with integrity and productive purpose.

The Four-Year Gazette Delay (2013–2017)

Having sat for the 31st Bangladesh Civil Service (BCS) examination and secured recommendation for the Agriculture Cadre in 2013, Abu Md. Moniruzjaman faced a four-year procedural deferment before his official gazette notification and formal appointment. Where his cohort contemporaries commenced service and began accumulating seniority, experience, and increment entitlements from 2013, he was effectively held in administrative suspension until January 2017.

This delay — the causes of which he attributes in part to the political climate prevailing at the time, during which BNP-affiliated individuals faced heightened institutional scrutiny — resulted in a compounded salary increment disparity that persists to this day. Despite performing equivalent duties and demonstrating superior technical capability, he carries a structural financial disadvantage relative to peers who entered service without such disruption.

Rather than allowing this period to become one of professional stagnation, he channelled it into intensive digital skills development — acquiring the technological competencies in AI, mobile application development, and data systems architecture that now distinguish him as one of DAE's most innovative practitioners. The delay, inflicted as an institutional burden, became the foundation of his competitive differentiation.

Postings in Hardship Zones

Upon entering service, he received consecutive postings to Bangladesh's most remote and operationally challenging environments — haor flood zones, hill tract terrain, and char land districts — assignments that incoming officers frequently seek to avoid. He accepted each posting without complaint, establishing agricultural extension infrastructure, digital systems, and community programmes under conditions of minimal institutional support. This pattern of hardship posting, whether coincidental or systematic, has produced an administrator of exceptional field capability and adaptive resilience.

Competencies Forged Through Adversity

- ▶ Resilient Leadership: Sustained full operational performance across 8+ years of field service without degradation, notwithstanding gazette delays, salary disparities, and hardship postings.
- ▶ Technological Adaptation: Self-directed mastery of AI platforms, mobile development, blockchain systems, and digital agriculture tools — developed largely during periods of professional isolation.

- ▶ Crisis Management: Proven capacity to build functional administrative systems from scratch in resource-scarce, low-connectivity, culturally diverse environments.
- ▶ Strategic Patience: Long-term career orientation sustained through significant institutional adversity — without compromising productivity, integrity, or professional commitment.
- ▶ Democratic Conviction: An unwavering belief in the democratic process, shaped by student leadership experience and deepened by direct exposure to the consequences of democratic backsliding.

The salary increment disparity and delayed service entry represent administrative irregularities that constitute legitimate grievances requiring formal rectification through appropriate channels. It is respectfully submitted to the party leadership that these matters merit advocacy and institutional support — not as a matter of personal advantage, but as a matter of justice and the party's stated commitment to the fair treatment of its members in public service.

4. STATEMENT OF COMMITMENT TO PARTY & NATION

Abu Md. Moniruzjaman remains steadfast in his commitment to the democratic ideals and the vision of a prosperous, sovereign Bangladesh that the Bangladesh Nationalist Party has championed since its founding. His career — built through personal sacrifice, systemic adversity, and relentless professional development — has been guided by the same values of service, accountability, and democratic governance that define the party's character.

He offers his technical expertise, field experience, and digital innovation capacity in service of the party's policy agenda for agricultural transformation, rural development, and Smart Bangladesh — and seeks the party's recognition, support, and advocacy for the administrative justice that has long been denied to him.

Submitted with respect,
